Dear Hiring Manager

Re: Software Development Graduate Role

My Name is Sasha Russell, I am a Web development graduate. I've noticed your job add on indeed, advertising the Software Development graduate role. I strongly believe my skills in coding languages such as C#, C++, Java Script as demonstrated in my university portfolio.

Work, college and university projects have helped develop my time management, organisational and problem-solving skills. I believe these skills will be suitable for the advertised role and for advance my knowledge/experience in the development industry. Besides the challenge which the role entails, I believe I can hit the ground running and start actively contributing to the business.

My portfolio has been attached to demonstrate creativity, pride and passion I have for technology, as well as the skills in solving technical problems.

Thank you for your time and consideration of my application and my attached CV.

Yours Sincerely

Sasha Russell
